

09/93699

Abstract

An object of the present invention lies in making a liquid crystal display small-sized, thin and light-weighted.

To achieve such an object, a light diffusing layer formed on a display part of the liquid crystal display is constituted of an adhesive layer 17 and light diffusion material 16 which has a refractive index different from that of the adhesive agent.